HOMAGE IS PAID HEROIC DEAD IN ARLINGTON CEREMONY

LABOR - MANAGEMENT TRUCE ADVOCATED BY EXECUTIVE TO HASTEN ECONOMIC STABILITY

Increases Appear "Inevitable" as Wartime Curbs Are Lifted From All Items Except Rents, Sugar and Rice

EDICT BRINGS PROMISES TO HOLD THE LEVELS

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—President Truman today advocated an armistice between labor and management in his first public statement since he junked wage and price controls.

Wartime curbs on the two groups were lifted after five years when Mr. Truman swept ceilings off all items except rents, sugar and rice. And rent increases appeared "inevitable" to some government officials.

The subject of a labor-management truce came up at the president's Armistice Day news conference when a reporter asked whether he had noted such proposals.

Mr. Truman replied that he had not heard of the suggestions, but said it is just what he has been urging since August, 1945, when the war ended.

The chief executive killed off the price and wage controls in a self-end order, declaring:

"I am convinced that their further continuance would do the nation's economy more harm than good."

At the same time the chief executive placed "squarely upon management and labor" the responsibility for economic stability.

His decontrol edict brought immediate promises from industry and business leaders that prices will be held at reasonable levels after a period of adjustment.

But some of these leaders tempered their pledges with a big "if"—if wage demands don't upset the applecart.

From labor unions, many of which already are seeking higher pay to offset living cost increases, there was nothing but silence on the president's action.

On the coal, steel, auto and several other fronts there is plenty of potential trouble if management and labor deadlock as they did a few months back.

While the unions said nothing, the United States Chamber of Commerce called on labor to exercise "self-restraint" in wage demands and in the use of the strike weapon to enforce wage demands.

Mr. Truman's order wiped price ceilings off building materials as

Hazleton Bank Is Robbed Of Over $20,000

Hazleton, Nov. 11.—(P)—Robbers who presumably picked the lock on a front door and "jimmied" a night deposit vault made off with about $20,000 in cash some time Sunday, officials of the First National Bank of Hazleton reported today.

The robbery was discovered by William Schwartz, a watchman after coming on duty last night at 9 o'clock.

George Walser, cashier, said the exact total stolen could not be determined until a check is made with depositors. However he said that customary Saturday night deposits range in neighborhood of $20,000 to $25,000. Some night deposit bags were found in the shattered vault, apparently having been left in the chute after the robbery.

After smashing open the night vault, the robbers made their get away through boiler room leading to an alley at the rear of the bank. They broke locks on this door and carried off the loot in a cardboard carton they cricked up in the bank basement.

Wachman Schwartz went off duty at 6 a. m., Sunday and the building was unattended until he came at 9 o'clock last night. Schwartz said everything was in order when he made his final tour Sunday morning but he discovered the robbery immediately when he came back to the bank at 9 p. m.

Walser said the bank's alarm system does not include the night vault, which is located in the basement.

Police said that the robbers had apparently gained entrance sometime when there are few people on the street and had opportunity to work unmolested for several hours.

Push Crusade At Steubenville, Ohio

Steubenville, O., Nov. 11.—(P)—Steubenville's band of militant ministers, intent upon curbing gambling and prostitution in this Ohio river city, today pushed their crusade through two channels—the governor's office and the city council.

As about 1,200 townspeople sang "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" at a mass meeting of citizens yesterday, the ministers circulated petitions asking Gov. Frank J. Lausche to name a special grand jury and prosecutor to investigate alleged Steubenville crime.

The Rev. R. K. Russell, one of a dozen protestant pastors who at first asked that they be granted special police powers to quash crime, said the petitions were signed by 760 persons—1.9 percent of the city's 40,000 population.

A delegation of the ministers and some of their followers expect to present the petitions this week to Gov. Lausche.

Friends Boom Lichtenwalter For Speaker of the House

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—Amiable, hard-working Franklin Y. Lichtenwalter of Lehigh county was boomed today by his friends for the speakership of the 47 state legislature in event speaker Ira T. Fiss decides against trying to break a 155-year precedent of not holding the post more than two years.

Fiss, who easily won reelection to the house from Republican Snyder county, has withheld comment on his plans. He was elected speaker in 1943 at the start of Governor Martin's administration and was reelected in 1945.

House records show no one has served more than two terms in the speakership since 1791.

Lichtenwalter was first elected to the house at the age of 28 in 1916 and was majority leader in the lower house throughout the Martin administration. He is credited with helping materially in enacting the GOP program in 1945 when the party had only four votes to spare on partisan issues.

"He will be in there fighting for the speakership," said one close associate of Lichtenwalter when asked if the Lehigh legislator would be a candidate should Fiss step aside.

The 171 Republican legislators elected Nov. 5 probably will caucus early next month to decide the speakership and at the same time select Lichtenwalter's successor as house leader in event he wins the top house place. Rep. Herbert P. Sorock of Elk county, 1945 GOP whip, has been mentioned for Lichtenwalter's successor.

The GOP house caucus also will select a whip and agree on candidates for chief clerk—a post now held by William E. Habbysaw of Dauphin county—and other house places.

The posts will not be officially filled until the new general assembly organizes next Jan. 7 with the Democrats holding only 39 of the 208 seats, decision of the Republican caucus will be final.

Tribute Is Paid U. S. War Dead In England

Cambridge, Eng., Nov. 11.—(P)—A handful of United States service personnel met briefly today to honor the 67,000 American war dead buried on the slope of a green hill on the outskirts of this city.

While the ceremony proceeded in the cemetery's nissen hut, German prisoners of war laid bouquets on each grave.

Mine Union Chief Gives No Hint: Whether He Will Make Public His Wage Demands

NEW STRIKE THREATENS

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—John L. Lewis opened negotiations with secretary of Interior J. A. Krug today on a pay increase for 400,000 sort coal miners threatening a new walkout Nov. 20.

The United Mine Workers' chief strode unsmiling into the big interior department conference room, heading a group of 26 other mine workers officials. They included district presidents of soft coal producing areas.

Coal Miners Administrators N. J. Collision and other interior department officials accompanied Krug, who has challenged Lewis' right to open the government wage contract which the two made last spring.

Lewis declined to give any hint to reporters whether he would make public his demands, which he has held off during more than a week of preliminary negotiations between a union committee and collision.

The UMW leader is the first labor leader to come to bat in a new free swinging era of collective bargaining following the release of coal and other mines.

Because the government is running the mines the Liquidating Wage Stabilization Board or its successor still will have to pass on any change in the pay or working conditions of the bituminous mines.

Lewis has laid down a timetable that could call for a notification to the government Friday that he is in- (Turn to Page Nine)

Bodies Found In New Jersey Kidnap Probe

Mt. Holly, N. J., Nov. 11.—(P)—State Police Captain Walter J. Coughlin announced today that two bodies had been found in the thick woods of Lebanon state forest not far from the scene where the car used in the kidnaping of a soldier's wife had been located.

Capt. Coughlin did not say whether the bodies were male or female. He said he received the report at West Trenton state police headquarters from his men in the field where they and FBI agents had been searching for two days.

Mrs. Mary Kimmey, 26-year-old wife of Sgt. Glynn K. Kimmey of the U. S. Army Signal Corps, had been kidnaped from the bed of her husband on Sept. 27.

The FBI said at the time that the abductor was Chalmers Laubach, an ex-convict, and that the kidnap car was a black 1937 Ford sedan, with Ohio license plates. The car was found abandoned yesterday in the forest.

Police authorities had advanced the theory during the all-night search that Mrs. Kimmey might have been slain and her body hidden in the area.

BALLOT COUNT IS IN PROSPECT IN CAMBRIA

Johnstown, Nov. 11.—(P)—Petitions seeking a recount of votes cast last Tuesday in 46 Johnstown districts were circulated today as the result of a close race for a state assembly seat.

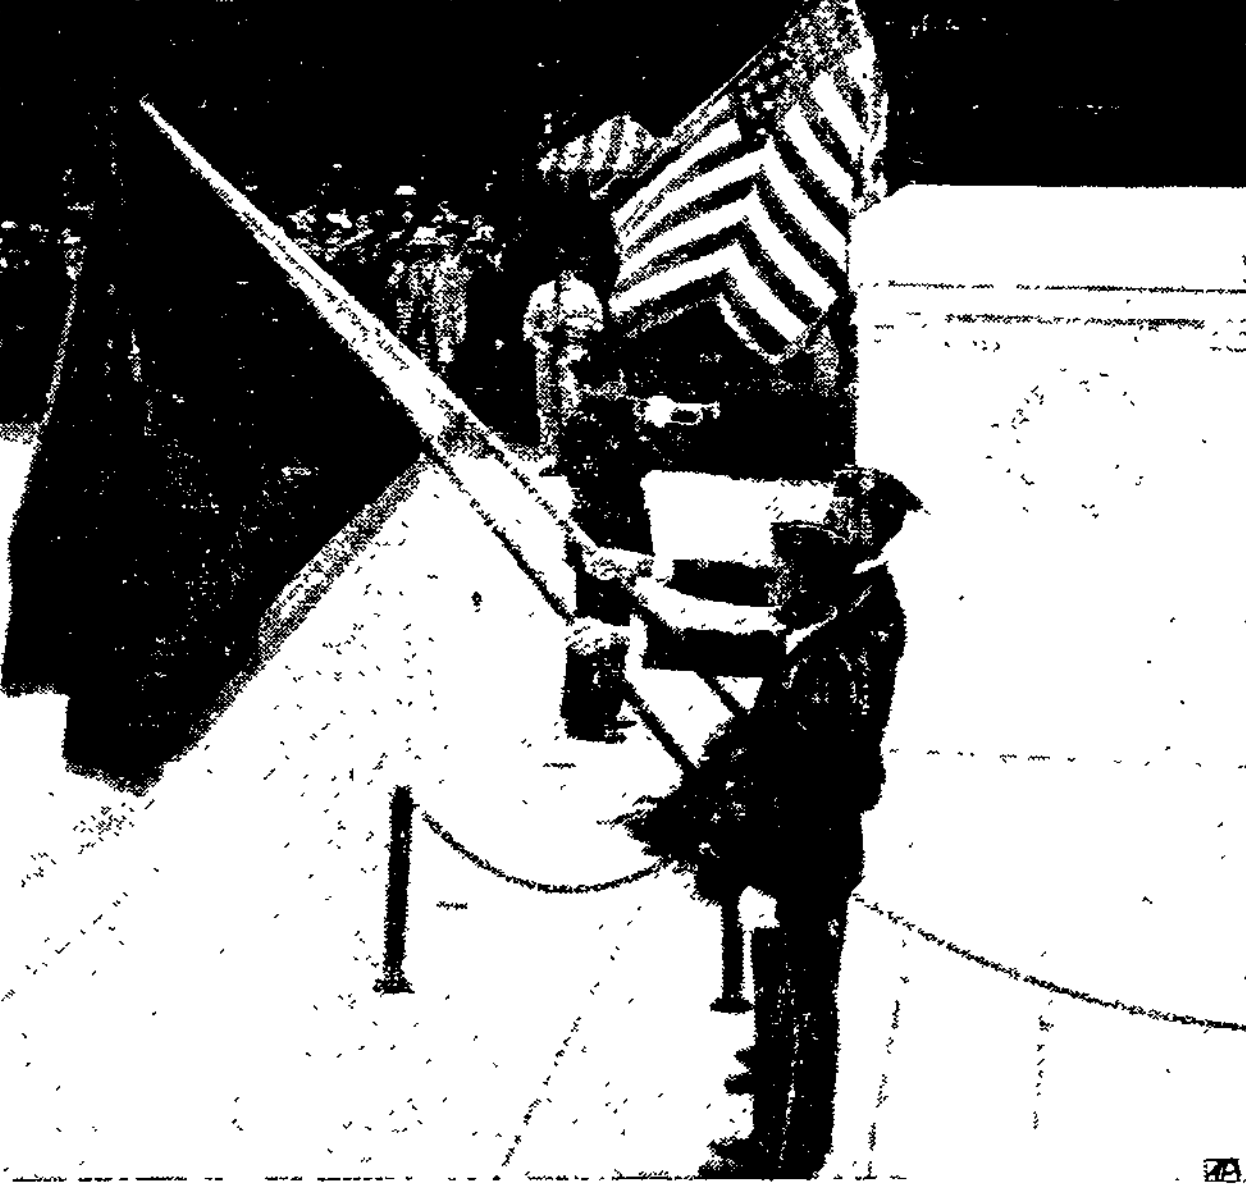

The petitions were drawn in behalf of A. A. Walker, Republican, who lost by an official 49 votes to the incumbent, Rep. A. G. Andrews, house Democratic leader.

President Judge John H. McCann of Cambria county court said it would be in his 30 years on the bench that the votes of an entire city had been challenged.

MONOXIDE VICTIM

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11.—(P)—James V. Wright, Jr., 40, manager of the analysis Department of the Mellon National Bank and Trust Co., was found dead in his garage Saturday night. Dr. William E. McClelland, Allegheny county coroner, said death was caused by carbon monoxide poisoning. Wright's body was found by his wife and two sons on their return home from a theatre.

ARMISTICE DAY

28th Division Battle Streams Are Returned

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—Five battle streamers spoke eloquently of the scope of their World War Two journey as the colors of Pennsylvania's 28th Division returned home today for the third time in history.

Maj. Gen. Norman D. Cota, who commanded the 28th in France and at the time of its deactivation a year ago, turned over the flags to the commonwealth in an Armistice Day ceremony, declaring:

"May these colors be an inspiration to inspire Pennsylvania to keep the 28th Division active and strong."

Accepting the colors in behalf of the commonwealth, Governor Martin, who as a major general commanded the division at the time it was federalized in 1940, replied:

"The commonwealth is most grateful for the history you have made in defending the principles of our government."

New Coalition Regime Voted For France

Paris, Nov. 11.—(P)—The Communists emerged today as the strongest party in France's new fourth republic, but the outcome of yesterday's national election seemed unlikely to bring a strictly left-wing government.

On the basis of incomplete returns from balloting for a national assembly, some new coalition appeared probable in place of the combine of Popular Republicans (MRP), Communists and Socialists which controls the current provisional government.

Prior to the election the Communist party and the MRP each promised if elected to shut out the other from any new cabinet, but the election results seemed to have made this impossible.

The Communists ousted President Georges Bidault's MRP from the legislative lead, winning back the place they took in the first constituent assembly elected Oct. 21, 1945, and lost in the second election last June 2.

CHURCH MERGER WILL TAKE PLACE SATURDAY

Johnstown, Nov. 11.—(P)—Thirteen years of inter-denominational negotiations will culminate in the merger of the Evangelical and the United Brethren in Christ churches here Saturday.

The new church, to be called the Evangelical United Brethren Church, will be the nation's 10th largest—with 714,000 members.

General conferences of the merging congregations this week will wind up final details. Present bishops of both sects are expected to be named to similar positions in the new church.

Senator Bishop A. R. Clippinger, of Dayton, O., will read the declaration of union creating the new church at ceremonies here Saturday.

President Urges Exercise Of Wisdom and Restraint Under Divided Government Control

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—President Truman called upon both Democrats and Republicans today to exercise "wisdom and restraint" in operation of the government under divided party control.

He told the nation that the parties must examine their respective positions "with stern and critical analysis" to exclude any attempt to tamper with the public interest in order to achieve personal or partisan advantage."

Mr. Truman said in a statement read to his news conference that the Democratic defeat in last Tuesday's election "does not alter our domestic or foreign interests or problems." He reminded that "in foreign affairs we have a well-charted course to follow."

The president declared he knew of no resignations planned by members of his cabinet and said that Charles G. Ross will continue as his press secretary.

In response to a question, the president said a decision on whether leaders of the new Republican-controlled congress will be called to the White House for weekly conferences is one to be made later.

Mr. Truman characterized foreign policy as "a national and not a party program."

The president said he is concerned "lest any in either party should seek in this field of foreign affairs an opportunity to achieve personal notoriety or partisan advantage by exploitation of the sensational or by the mere creation of controversy."

"We are set upon a hard course," Mr. Truman said. "An effort by either the executive or the legislative branch of the government to embarrass the other for partisan gain would bring frustration to our country."

The president pledged his cooperation "in every proper manner" with congress to meet "faith with faith," and "good will with good will."

Mr. Truman chose Armistice Day, anniversary of this country's victory in World War I, as the occasion for his first comment on the crushing defeat that gave the (Turn to Page Nine)

Man Kills Brother In Breakfast Tilt

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11.—(P)—Homocidal Detective Louis Hamel said Charles Wickline, 16, was held today pending a coroner's investigation into the breakfast killing of his 14-year-old brother, Sherrill Wickline.

Hamel said Charles told him his thumb slipped as he pulled back the hammer of a revolver in an attempt to "scare" Sherrill when the boys argued over butter yesterday. The gun discharged and Sherrill collapsed on the kitchen floor. He died in Shadyside hospital a short time later.

The detective gave this account of the argument:

Charles asked Sherrill to pass the butter and Sherrill replied, "You'll get it when I'm through with it," Charles declared, "then I'll take it," and drew the gun he was wearing in a holster.

Hamel said Charles told him he enlisted in the army Air Forces six months ago by saying he was 18. He was assigned to Scott Field, Ill. Tiring of army life, he began hitch-hiking about the country and visiting relatives in other cities.

Russia Denies Intention To Inject Veto

Lake Success, N. Y., Nov. 11.—(P)—Soviet Russia denied today that she had any intentions of injecting the "veto" into United Nations trusteeships, but flatly rejected an American proposal which would sidestep a showdown on this controversial issue.

Soviet Ambassador Nikolai V. Novikov, in an hour-long speech before the general assembly's trusteeship committee, charged Great Britain had violated the U. N. charter by not submitting a trusteeship agreement for Palestine. And he declared that American statements on trusteeship were "contradictory."

Without making any direct reference to the U. S. proposal to place the former Japanese mandates under a "strategic area trusteeship," Novikov replied at length to last week's speech by John Foster Dulles, American representative.

Novikov singled out Great Britain, Australia and the Union of South Africa for the main part of his criticism, asserting that they and other powers holding former League of Nations mandates were responsible for the failure of the U. N. to set up the trusteeship council before now.

An authoritative source expressed belief today that the political committee of the United Nations assembly would approve a resolution calling for reconsideration by the U. N. Security Council of five membership applications rejected last August.

HOUSING SHORTAGE IN STATE FOR POTATOES

Harrisburg, Nov. 11.—(P)—There is a housing shortage for potatoes and the U. S. Production and Marketing Administration has urged all householders in Pennsylvania to buy and store at least 100 pounds of potatoes in their homes.

John A. Smith, state secretary of the marketing group said the present commercial storage space is too short to care for "the large potato crop in the country's history."

He advised every family to buy at least a 100 pound sack which he said could be stored easily "provided only that a cool cellar, closet or back porch is available for the storage."

He added that the spot chasen for storage must be one where the temperature does not rise much above 40 degrees.

CHIEF EXECUTIVE CALLS FOR DEFENSE PROGRAM THAT WILL PREVENT A THIRD WORLD WAR

Chief Executive Leads Nation's Armistice Day Observance By Placing Wreath on Tomb of Unknown Soldier

LEGION COMMANDER ALSO DELIVERS ADDRESS

Washington, Nov. 11.—(P)—President Truman today laid a wreath in homage to the nation's heroic dead and declared this country is striving for a peace that will prevent fighting a third time for the same ideals.

At nearby Arlington Cemetery, Mr. Truman led the nation's Armistice Day observance by placing a wreath of chrysanthemums on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier as notables of this and Allied nations looked on.

Then, in the adjoining amphitheater, he told a gathering:

"What we are trying to do now is to create a peace which will prevent the necessity of our grandchildren fighting a third World War for the same principles for which we stand now, and have always stood."

The president handed back symbolically to the various states the colors which their national guard units carried in the last war. The actual return of the flags was accomplished in the capitals of the states today.

Mr. Truman recalled that he, too, was a National Guardsman in the First World War and a member of the Reserve Corps since then.

"Those two organizations are the fundamental backbone of our national defense program, which we hope to implement with the ground forces of the United States," he said.

"We want that defense program to keep the peace."

The president was greeted by a 21-gun salute as he drove into the cemetery. Secretary of War Patterson, Secretary of the Navy Forrestal and other notables walked with him to the tomb. After taps, he proceeded to the amphitheater.

In a ceremony at the amphitheater, following the president's appearance, National American Legion Commander Paul H. Griffith called for a strong national defense program, and asserted that War department legislative advisers said reporters privately they not only doubt that the new session will agree to peacetime conscription but that the sentiment may be so strong as to dissuade the army from even asking an extension of the wartime draft act. That law is due to expire in March.

Among those who stressed the preparedness theme in armistice day statements was Gen. Carl Spaatz, Army Air Forces commander.

Patriotic Fervor Lacking As Warren Observes the Holiday

Ralph Chester, veteran of World War I and Red Cross worker during World War II, at the Armistice Day exercises held in Liberty Theatre due to the rain, warned against smugness in the land and the false belief that peace is at hand. He made a strong plea that "it shall not happen again" and that the 350,000 young men who died on battlefields shall not have died in vain. He likened this Armistice Day to that of 28 years ago, when the strife had ended, but peace was far away. His plea was an impassioned one and the few who heard his words, tinged with the experience of two wars, must have registered a desire for a just and lasting peace.

The ceremonies were held in the Liberty Theatre and on the stage the High School band and speakers were seated. The crowd on the stage was larger than that in the auditorium to the shame of Warren residents, who failed miserably in their observance of the day. Not a flag flew from a flag pole and on the streets there were but four—at Mac's News Room, American Legion, City building and the Times-Mirror. The smugness spoken of by Mr. Chester has assailed Warren.

Nick Anderson presided at the exercises and following a two minute silence and sounding of "Taps" by John Casses, Benjamin Biglow, chaplain gave prayer.

The ritual of the American Legion participated in by members of the Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars N. Anderson, W. E. H. Dunham, Sam Chestnut and Henry Nicholson was given inspiring thought of all present.

A talk by Ralph Chester and the High School band played a stirring march as a recessional. The exercises were impressive and inspirational and regret is that so few availed themselves of the opportunity to join in the program.

Armistice Day was observed in the Beatty Junior High School with an assembly program at 8:45. (Turn to Page Nine)

Portions of Upper Plains States Blanketed With Snow

By The Associated Press

A heavy blanket of snow—in some places as much as 16 inches—covered some portions of the upper plain states today and in the south at least one person was dead after an unseasonable tornado.

The tornado, which struck in Pointe Coupee Parish of Louisiana, killed a negro and injured two others—a mother and her baby. All telephone communication with the community was broken. In other parts of Louisiana, rain and some winds were noted, with Baton Rouge reporting a wind velocity of 40 miles an hour. Unseasonably warm weather had been reported over most of the south.

The snow covered Colorado, Nebraska, Iowa, South Dakota, Central Minnesota and northern Wisconsin. Moving eastward, a storm went into upper Michigan and was expected to bring rain to New York and the New England states today.

In Colorado a cold wave followed the two-day snow storm, which had taken 13 lives. Temperatures fell to the 20's, causing additional concern among stockmen who said approximately 25,000 cattle were snow-bound on ranges.

Travel was still hazardous as Colorado dug itself out from the snow storm. Twelve inches of snowblanketed highways near Alton, Ia., and a fall of 16 inches was reported at Wayne, Neb. Sioux City, Ia., had eight inches and Sioux Falls, S. Dak., 11 inches. In Minnesota, the snow ranged up to six inches.

Two Killed In Airline Crash At Cleveland

Cleveland, Nov. 11.—(P)—A United Airlines plane crashed into trees and high tension wires just north of Cleveland airport early today, killing the pilot and co-pilot and injuring 17 passengers and the stewardess.

The plane, flight 404 bound from Chicago to Boston, crashed during a rainstorm. The plane cleared Chicago at 12:35 (central standard time) and was due at Cleveland airport at 3:27 a. m. (EST).

The victims were Pilot F. L. Brown, 44, Chicago, and Co-Pilot Robert L. Arnold, 25, Hammond, Ind.

The plane was demolished as it spun into the ground, the engines being torn from the wings and the fuselage breaking in half.

Fred Pasko, a truck driver believed to be one of the few witnesses, said he noticed the plane about 2,000 feet north of the airport, flying low. He said the plane's landing lights were on and the landing gear was down.

Stewardess on the plane was Miss Betty Dobson, 25, of Chicago. The passengers and stewardess (Turn to Page Nine)

Chief Albaugh Proposes Fire School For County Firemen

Fire Chief Charles Albaugh, of the Warren Fire Department, is closely following the trend of affairs over the state in the training of firemen. With a reciprocal agreement for mutual aid being arranged for in the county Chief Albaugh hails this as a big step forward.

Today he called attention to the operation of county fire schools and pointed out that in Westchester County, Pennsylvania the plan had been put into operation with all of the fire companies in the county participating. A central plot of ground had been secured and a fire tower erected and other appurtenances installed such as an oil pit, small oil tank, etc., ready for practical fire fighting work.

Chief Albaugh feels that such an arrangement in Warren with the paid firemen here who are the active and city fire fighters in the borough, with firemen from Sugar Grove, Russell, Sheffield, North Warren, Clarendon, Youngville and Tidioute participating such a fire school would be a noteworthy thing.

Instructors could give practical instruction on oil fire fighting, tank wagon blazes, use of all equipment carried on the trucks, etc., and that it would make the fire fighters better equipped mentally for their jobs. The whole plan sounds like a good one and it may be that a meeting of the county fire chiefs will be called to take steps to put such a fire school into operation.

Youngville's department is on its toes with training meetings and schools and the men are nearly all trained in the operation of the trucks and pumps and other equipment. Clarendon, too, has gone a long way in that work as have some of the other departments of the county.

The volunteer companies in Warren have dwindled in membership and few, if any, of them ever answer fire alarms so that the burden of all fire fighting falls on Chief Albaugh and his men. Every effort is made to keep them in tip top shape and the county would find its fire losses cut if such a plan could be arranged and carried out.

The suggestion has been made before that the instructor who worked over the state during the war with various departments might be brought to this city for a week's intensified school in connection with a county school. Captain George Cartwright of Johnsbury is one of the outstanding firemen of the state and with his tour of experience during the war would make an admirable man to conduct such a school.

It is hoped that the matter is not allowed to drop but that Chief Albaugh is able to carry it through to a happy conclusion as its value to the firemen of the county would be great.

There has apparently been no letup in the continuance of systematic savings on the part of Warren borough school pupils and teachers, deposits in school savings accounts now running ahead of sales, but both being maintained regularly.

Stamps and bonds sold during the month of October totaled $720.40, with school totals as follows: High, $138.80; Beaty, $78.60; East, $26.55; Home, $30.45; Johnson, $108.40; Lacy, $100.40; McCulloch, $22.90; Seneca, $75.05; South, $103.25.

Savings accounts for the weeks of October 14, 21, 28 amounted to $975.12, with an additional $312.75 for the first week of November. Sales in the first week of this month amounted to $206, making a total of $518.75 for both types of savings to start off the month.

In loving memory of my son, T. J. Charles Norman Brant who lies sleeping in France. By the troubled Mosele In a garden where the white crosses grow. Like the flowers he loved Sleeps my Golden Boy. Although he will never walk the wood-path of his boyhood again. His memory still lives there In the hills and valleys in the wind and rain. He is the glory of the sun. The strength of the storm. He is the touch of dew on the roses. His voice lingers on the song of birds. Only God knows why taking him was right. For he was a dreamer of days to come. Until duty called him over there To build up what others had shattered elsewhere. It seems he had finished his days on earth. For now in his youth he is sleeping like the flowers he loved. In the garden where the white crosses grow. In a cemetery in France Where the troubled Mosele flows. Sadly missed by his mother, Mrs. Mary Brant Brothers and Sisters. 11-11-17

LaFollette Will Deliver Lecture Friday

The Honorable Philip F. LaFollette, former governor of Wisconsin, will speak here Friday of this week, opening the current season's Talk of the Month Club series, in Founders Hall of the First Methodist church, at 8:30 o'clock. His topic is "A Sound Policy for America."

Col. LaFollette is a native of Madison, Wis., where he and his brother Bob were practical farmers. For a number of years he lived in the executive mansion of his native state while his father was governor of Wisconsin. Most of his high school work was taken in the Madison High School, although he graduated from the Western High School in Washington, D. C., while his father was a U. S. Senator.

He received both his A. B. and his LL.B. degree from the University of Wisconsin. He was district attorney of Dane County, Wisconsin, during 1926-27. From 1928 to 1930 he taught in the Law School of the University of Wisconsin. In 1931 he was elected to the first of his three terms as governor of the state. During World War I Phil LaFollette served as a second lieutenant. Shortly after Pearl Harbor he volunteered again in the U. S. Army, and was commissioned a Captain. He sailed for combat duty in the Pacific in the summer of 1942.

The next three years were spent as a member of the staff of General MacArthur in the Pacific. During this period he was promoted three times. He won the Bronze Star for meritorious service, the Asiatic Pacific Ribbon with six battle stars, the Bronze Arrowhead Philippine Liberation Ribbon with one star, a Presidential Union Citation Ribbon, and the Legion of Merit.

Col. LaFollette has long been a leader in progressive thinking. He is intellectually keen and honest and has unusual facility in expressing himself succinctly and effectively. The four organizations sponsoring Warren's chapter of the Talk of the Month Club—the College Women's Club, the Men's

QUADS BORN DEAD
Titusville, Nov. 11.—Premature birth of quadruplets—all boys—was reported from the Bashline Shrum Hospital at Fieldmore yesterday. All were dead.

The children were four months in embryo, and Dr. M. F. Bashline expressed the opinion last night that if the babies had continued their development during the normal gestation period they would have survived.

Bible Class of the First Methodist Church, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.—are to be congratulated upon securing the services of such a distinguished speaker for their first speaker of the season.
The Men's Bible Class will have charge of this first session of the Club. Admission will be by season Membership ticket, which must be shown at the door. The Club policy forbids the sale of one-night admissions to any of the scheduled four events.

Another Talk about GAS for Home Heating

In which additional information is given regarding your Gas Company's recommendation to postpone any more heating installations until NEXT summer

A sufficient supply of Gas for all users is a matter of transportation facilities, rather than a question of the quantity of gas available. This is the reason why advertisements were published recently recommending postponement of any further heating installations until next summer.

A greatly increased heating load has been attached to your Gas Company's lines so rapidly that it has been impossible to provide necessary pipe line and pumping facilities to meet further increases this year.

Recent surveys have shown that there are proven gas reserves in the United States sufficient for many years at the present rate of consumption. The problem is to get this production transported so that it can be made available for present and prospective customers.

Critical material shortages, in many instances, are delaying construction of pipe line facilities which would permit additional gas to be transported to the ultimate consumer. However, in spite of critical shortages, your Gas Company is making every possible effort to meet the future demands of its customers

While your Gas Company appreciates the potential patronage of those who would use gas for home heating, the present situation makes it necessary for us to recommend a postponement of any more heating installations until next summer.

THESE RECOMMENDATIONS DO NOT APPLY TO COOKING, WATER HEATING OR REFRIGERATION

Chapter 12

UNDER cover of his napkin he slipped the knife off the table and as he shook out the napkin transferred it to his right trouser pocket. For a brief second Stephanie's eyes held his, as if only the two of them existed. When she shifted her glance he could feel a pounding in his ears. She had seen. Now Joseph was at his elbow, a piece of ice chinked into her, the trickle of water, then the trickle stopped as Joseph noticed his knife was missing—when it started again. He watched it fill his glass. As Joseph moved away he struggled to keep his eyes on Stephanie's face. She smiled a crooked little half smile. He felt more than heard Joseph at his side again but kept his eyes on Stephanie and when he finally glanced down the knife was replaced. He wondered if Joseph had counted the remaining knives.

Unlike the previous evening dinner passed quickly, pleasantly though he was well aware how he covertly watched him. But it didn't alarm him, the feel of the knife in his pocket gave him hope and animated his conversation. They talked with such enthusiasm Stephanie now and again reminded him to eat. She seemed content to listen. A few times when Steiner succeeded in driving a point he looked at her as if to make certain of her approval. Niel thought it strange that he should be so anxious to make a favorable impression on her.

Back in the drawing room there was none of the previous hostile tension. Niel asked her to sing and Steiner quickly pulled out the bench and after selecting a few sheets of music turned to him.

"Please play for her."

Time seemed to be standing still for them while she sang. Her voice was sweetly toned, it took some of the secret fear out of him. Above the piano, on a black and white crayon portrait of Stefan Steiner and in the corner he saw the slanting lines of his own father's signature—Francis Dana. The letters imprinted themselves across his brain. It was too impossible to believe that anything terrible could happen to him in this house, some part of him belonged here. Then he felt the knife in his pocket, no false sense of security must prevent his escaping.

Near the end of her second song her voice wavered and she stopped, her eyes riveted on the doorway. Then Niel heard Joseph's cracked, agitated voice: "Herr Conrad, General Von Beck is here."

Steiner swore with low, violent passion and Conrad strode over to the piano. "Come with me Dana." His face too was dark with anger as he took Niel's arm to propel him to the side entrance. As they turned up the back staircase Niel looked across the drawing room and caught a brief glimpse of a tall, black haired woman and a broad, square built man in evening dress.

CONRAD took him to his room and said good-night in a hurried pre-occupied manner that stilled Niel's questions. He stood for a minute trying to remember if he'd ever heard the name Von Beck, wondering why he felt so urgently the necessity of getting away before something happened. Then he switched on the light of the closet to examine its ceiling, the darkness and the line of lath-like bones through the skin of an old woman so that the broader parallel spaces betrayed the line of the floorboards. He drew out the knife, kissed the blade and set it on the shelf while he undressed.

Before starting to work he left the closet door open in the event Conrad or Steiner might come for him. It required all his strength to score a line from floorboard to floorboard then along the edges of the beams to complete a rectangle large enough to give passage for his shoulders. Under his aching forehead the blade quivered and the line of lath-like bones through the skin of an old woman was all important or of no importance but Stephanie didn't fit his classifications so he avoided her as much as possible.

the line of his cutting, pittering to shelves and floor, almost blinding him. Sweat broke across his forehead and he stopped to rub his strained wrist and fingers. The sudden stillness seemed full of watching eyes. So much remained he decided to make long cuts through the plaster, so he closed the door and worked in a nerve wracking succession of cutting and listening.

Downstairs, as Glita Neumann greeted Stephanie it was impossible to say which provided the contrast. In fact they were so different it would be safe to say they had much in common. Seeing them together for the first time disturbed Franz.

"Forgive me for coming uninvited," she apologized, "but Paul insisted and it's so dull in the village."

"I didn't know you were in the village," answered Stephanie pleasantly. As much as Franz was disturbed at their being together, the General was pleased. It amused him to propel people into situations. He beamed at Stephanie and kissed her hand. Von Beck always kissed her hand when they met and always her eyes fastened on his bald spot and she thought of beer and sausages. In the past it used to make her feel a little bitter, because he was definitely not a beer and sausage general.

His face was too heavy to be handsome and the colorless fringe of eyelash lent his small blue eyes a staring effect, a tide of reddish flesh rolled under his collar but the defects were rendered almost non-existent by powerful, commanding figure and colossal vanity. In the company of most women he resorted to an old-fashioned gallantry, charming if one didn't suspect a pose. Stephanie in particular affected him in this way and he kept up the pretense because there was no alternative. With him a woman was all important or of no importance but Stephanie didn't fit his classifications so he avoided her as much as possible.

MORE NEWSPAPERS READ

The question, "What will radio do to the newspapers?" occasionally voiced some years ago, is no longer heard. Whether this is because everyone has listened to a radio at least once it is difficult to say. But the fact remains that daily newspapers in the United States have doubled the circulation of twenty years ago, when radio was in its infancy (Some say it has never emerged from the state).

It is no secret in newspaper publishing circles that newspapers would have an immediate gain of 10 per cent in circulation, with a steady and substantial climb thereafter, if newsprint, as the raw paper on which newspapers are printed is called, were available. But there is an acute shortage of newsprint that makes increased press runs for the average paper an impossibility.

Increase in prices of daily and Sunday newspapers have had no adverse effect upon circulation figures. On the contrary, higher prices seem to have had the effect of making newspapers more desirable. Publishers who take a long-range view of the situation are convinced that newspapers a few years hence will sell for ten cents a copy daily and 25 cents Sunday.

Phenomenal circulation marks reached by the American press are more than matched by the accomplishments in this regard of the English newspaper. Last Sunday the News of World, a London Sunday newspaper, achieved a world record with a circulation of 7,500,000. Compared to American newspapers, London papers are skeletonized products with few pages, little news and less advertising.

The largest circulation ever gained by a newspaper in the United States is achieved by the New York News, a tabloid, which has more than 2,000,000 daily and 4,500,000 Sunday circulation. The Chicago Tribune leads all standard-size newspapers, with 1,100,000 daily and 1,500,000 Sunday sales.

Weekly and small daily newspapers have kept pace with the metropolitan press in circulation figures during the war. In fact, curtailment of news in the large papers during the war because of paper shortage gave the weekly press renewed importance. People who live in towns served by weekly newspapers no longer read the local news first in daily newspapers. They read it first and last in the local newspaper.

PRESIDENTIAL PROSPECTS

With the congressional elections over, all political attention now centers on 1948. Among the Republican senators, Vandenberg and Taft would seem to be in the lead, with Senator Bricker, Governor Dewey, Governor Warren and ex-Governor Stassen also in the running.

But in 1948 Senator Vandenberg will be 64 years old Taft only 59. Harry Truman will also be 64 in 1948. Such a man would be 69 at the end of his term, and that's admittedly pretty old for a job as demanding as the U. S. Presidency.

Among the Democrats prominently mentioned to succeed him in case Truman does not choose to run, Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson now ranks tops. He will be 58 in 1948.

Liberal-wing conspirators still think Henry Wallace can do a comeback, if not in 1948, then in 1952. But in 1948 Henry Wallace will be 60, and in 1952 he also will be 64.

As second choice the liberals think Justice William O. Douglas is likeliest. He will be 50 in 1948, only 54 in 1952.

LEST WE FORGET

It sounded oddly like 1946!

But it was 1919, Pathfinder Magazine reminds—Nov. 11, President Woodrow Wilson had issued a proclamation that helped establish an annual Armistice Day.

"A year ago our enemies laid down their arms . . . and gave to the world an assured opportunity to . . . work out in peace a new and juster set of international relations. . . ."

"The war showed us the strength of great nations acting together for high purposes, and the victory of arms fortells the enduring conquests which can be made in peace when nations act justly in furtherance of common interests. . . ."

This Armistice Day the National Archives in Washington is just concluding an exhibit of war declarations and surrender documents—from World War II

MACKENZIE'S Column

By J. M. ROBERTS, Jr.
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

Many observers at the United Nations meeting in San Francisco felt the loose language used in providing a trusteeship system for colonies and occupied territories was opening the way for much future uncertainty and trouble.

Now the proposal of the United States regarding the former Japanese-held islands in the Pacific brings the organization face to face with the problem.

While subscribing to the ideological requirements of the charter about the welfare of the people and so forth, the U. S. proposal actually means complete control of the islands, even to the right to close them up as military areas as did the Japanese. Such rights may be necessary if the U. S. is to maintain positions from which to help enforce peace. Just how such a policy fits in with our attitude toward what other countries consider their strategic spheres is another matter.

But aside from all that, there are many debates ahead.

The whole trusteeship idea, as embodied in the charter, is still vague and without means of implementation.

There are two proposed categories of trusteeship—general, over primarily economic and non-military areas, and "strategic," the type the U. S. proposes in the Pacific. Just how the delineation is to be made is one of the yet unsolved problems.

A trusteeship council is to consist of states which submit territories which are held as mandates from the old league of nations, from World War II or other conquests, plus an equal number of states which do not, including any big five nation which does not.

The council will take its orders from the veto-armed security council with regard to strategic trusteeship council there must be regional trusteeship agreements between the "states directly concerned," so that the identity and number of trustee states can be determined.

The first snag is expected to come when Russia proposes that all members of the big five be considered "directly concerned." That would make each of them a party to every regional trusteeship agreement. The Americans are reported desirous of avoiding that. But in a world where the major powers will be charged with preserving the peace, with enforcing the agreements, with participation both in the trusteeship council and in the security council which will be the final arbiter on "strategic" trusteeships, this is one Russian idea which can hardly be classified as merely contentious.

The whole trusteeship system is voluntary, designed to shift to the United Nations the troubles which such mandates as Palestine have caused, and to build up in the world the idea of international rather than unilateral action in all non-self governing areas. With no definitions to go by, with every territory-holder making its own reservations as to the amount of control it relinquishes to UN, it was perhaps inevitable that the birth of trusteeship should prove chaotic. It is.

Boys Refused To Sober Up; Faced Justice

Offices of Good Samaritans in the shape of two of the doughty cops of the city police force were turned down last Saturday evening by two boys of age, sufficient to know better. The pair had a car and also an overload of the cup that cheers and attempted to get into a car to drive. The police halted them and took the pair to the lock-up to sober up with a siesta on the soft planks in the lodgers parlor. The boys were not under arrest but they became incensed and started to break up the couches and bend pipes, etc. Promptly they were transferred to quarters with nice steel bars and beds and told to do their worst. They did. So a session with Magistrate Greenlund will follow and the lads will find out that during the lumber shortage the cost of the benches has risen.

One traffic violator who used Pennsylvania avenue for a speedway was also garnered over the weekend.

And seven of the nice new supports for the new parking meters were shaken loose by a group of boys. They will find it costs money to set the posts.

Friday a reckless driver popped through a traffic light and passed eight cars waiting for the light to change. He also bumped into the bumper of another car. Failing to stop after the bump and the sired of the cop on duty will cost him plenty when he sees T. M. Greenlund.

Sis Marshall Scandeth, RD 2, is free on $1,000 bail posted by his father on a charge of drunken driving. He was travelling west on Pennsylvania avenue in the middle of the thoroughfare when he plowed into the car of William Taylor, Henry street, with a resultant damage of $100.

"Studio Project"
Try-outs Will Be
At Woman's Club

Helen Israel, chairman of the Warren Players "Studio Project" announced that try-outs for the three one-act plays, which are to be developed as a part of the "Studio Project" and will be presented as the Players second production, will be held tonight and Tuesday night from seven until nine o'clock at the Women's Club auditorium.

Enrollment in the "Studio Project" is not required of any player wishing to try out for these plays, and this will be regarded as an excellent opportunity for the many players who are desirous of working in the field of one act plays.

The plays have been carefully selected as to type, author and sent as fine a cross-section of one act plays as possible by selecting only three plays. "Sparkin'", a folk comedy by E. P. Conkle, is to be directed by David Smith, "The Pot Boil", a satire by Alice Gerstenberg, is to be directed by Joyce Erickson. William Saroyan's melodramatic, "Hello, Out There", is to be directed by Joan Miller.

These three plays offer a wide variety of roles and are available for reading at the reserved shelf at the Warren Public Library.

Home Ceremony
In Youngsville Sat.

A very pretty home wedding was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. H. York of Youngsville Friday Nov. 8th at five o'clock, when their daughter, Carolyn Irene, was united in marriage to Floyd D. Hyde, son of Mrs. Florence Hyde, of Youngsville. The Rev. J. L. Strong, pastor of the United Brethren church performed the ceremony in the presence of the immediate families and a few close friends.

The bride was lovely in a street length dress of aqua wool with white chrysanthemums and matching accessories. Mrs. Robert York who attended the bride, wore a dress of pink wool with white and blue corsage.

Robert York was best man. The bride's mother wore a black dress with a corsage of white chrysanthemums and the groom's mother wore a blue dress with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the Blue and White Restaurant at Tidoute. The bride's table was centered with a wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and groom. The table was very prettily decorated with candles and autumn flowers. Immediately after the supper the couple left for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home on Bates street, Youngsville.

Valda Luvison In Pleasing Recital At Conservatory

Miss Valda Luvison, pupil of Dr. Campbell, and former pupil of Lillian Swanson, Youngsville, was presented in a most interesting recital Friday evening at the Warren Conservatory of Music, before a very good sized audience. She played with excellent style and expression the numbers by Rogers and Oldberg. She was assisted by Miss Joan Yagge, soprano.

Following is the program: Piano, Solfeggetto—Bach; Fantasia in D Minor—Mazart; Voice, My Heart at Thy Dear Voice—Sain and Saens, Far Away Lies a Land—Thomas; Piano, Prælude—Oldberg, Etude Melodique—Rogers; voice, Clouds—Charles The Last Cloud—Sullivan; Piano, Polonaise in A Flat—Chopin; voice, O Dear Those Tears—Del Rio; The Owl and the Pussy Cat—Ingram; Piano, Concerto in D Minor—Mozart, Cadanza—Reinecke.

In playing the Polonaise by Chopin, Miss Luvison played with a sturdy rhythm in a good tempo and with great power and brilliancy. The number par excellence was the Mozart Concerto in D Minor. Miss Luvison gave a very good account of herself in this lovely classic.

Miss Joan Yagge, student of Byron Swanson, is developing rapidly into one of Warren's best singers. She has a rich mellow soprano voice, and was heard at her best in the Sain and Saens "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice", a very beautiful number which was sung with the tone and expression.

Adelaide Swanson was accompanied, and Lillian Swanson played the second piano to the Concerto.

Contest Is Held At Conservatory

Saturday evening a piano playing contest for the branch students in neighboring towns of the Warren Conservatory of Music was held at the Conservatory with Carolyn Morris, pupil of Frances Fowler of Titusville, taking first place. Second place was taken by Edith Johnson, pupil of Ida Gerude Buck of Tidoute.

The contests promote about twice as much progress and fine improvement as would otherwise be made.

Lewis Garber, Jack Parks, Josephine Garber, and Barbara Lander, regular Conservatory pupils played on the evening's program.

A special feature was the playing of Mason's brilliant and scintillating "Silver Spring" by Dorothy Bohren.

Beating the Budget

The home economics extension program for the winter months is now under way in Warren county, in charge of Miss Mollie Pickering, home economics extension representative. Women's groups are being formed in several interested communities about the county, among them Garland, Columbus, Corydon, Sugar Grove and Lottsville. These groups, and others which may be started soon, will hold bi-weekly meetings and take up such projects as remodeling of clothing, sewing, refinishing and reupholstery of furniture, current food problems, home decoration and other things of interest to rural homemakers. Last year 120 women participated in these home economics groups, which were under the direction of Miss Margaret Reed, former extension representative. Their meetings included work on sewing machine cleaning and adjustment, slip covering furniture, and kitchen improvement. In Columbus last year, 18 women belonged to the group; at Corydon, nine women; Garland, 18; Tidoute, 27; Chandlers Valley, 18; Sugar Grove, 18 and Rogertown, 12. On Monday, November 4, the women at Corydon held a program planning meeting to plan their winter meetings. This week the following groups will meet to organize: sugar Grove on November 12, Columbus on November 13 and Tidoute on November 14. The following week the women at Garland will hold their meeting. The home economics groups are open to everyone interested in learning about these home-making projects, and at the initial meeting of each one the women will plan what line of work they wish to follow this winter. Further announcements of meetings will be given later.

A dress coat should be elegant, dashing, luxurious. That's why our Shaggyfex Mouton tuxedo is so beautiful. It has yards and yards of perfect cosy, shimmering mouton, on downy fleecy wool. It's lined with Skinner's Sunbak for extra insulation. Betty Lee.

Somebody's Santa Claus... That's You

OUR FATHER who art in heaven—we thank you for this Armistice Day which we observe at peace, and beseech you to give to all men's hearts, hands and minds the capacity to work for continued peace. Let us not through greed and false values permit the destruction of all the beauty which has been wrought since first you created our world. Help us turn swords into ploughshares that all may have enough to eat. Help us turn atomic energy into life saving use that will lengthen man's span rather than blow him to dust. Let us hold in affection and respect all those made in your image, around the world — whatever their race, color or creed. Then we will not sadden you with more warring: then this Armistice date will truly signify peace at last—to last.

Local Pros, Masontown Tie, 0-0, on Russell Field

Jackets and Pals Shine On Defense But Slow Down On Offense In Sunday's Game

The Warren Red Jackets and the Masontown Pals battled it out on Russell Field yesterday afternoon to a 0-0 tie mid the mud from Sunday morning's rain. Neither team put in a real threat except the Masontown thrust following the initial kickoff.

The kickoff went deep into Warren territory, near the end zone and was carried back to the 18. The locals worked the ball but were unable to get farther than the 19 on two tries. Check tried a quick kick but it hit his own blocking and traveled only 6 yards. On the following fourth down, the Pals from down Pittsburgh way eked out a first on a ten yard pass from Joe Jesso to left end Tippen. The Jackets' sterling defensive play bogged down the march there and the Jackets took over, ending the only threat of the game by either side. The field was not slushy with mud, but just wet enough to make the turf stick to the shoes, causing many spills that were uncalled for. The wet weather was probably the cause of the smaller-than-usual crowd.

Both teams were playing beautiful defensive ball, but both failed to click noticeably when in possession.

TOUCHDOWN TWINS HELD TO A MINIMUM OF GAINS IN ARMY NOTRE DAME, 0-0 MEETING

By Jack Hand
New York, Nov. 11.—(AP)—Army and Notre Dame took a minimum of gains in the college football game at Notre Dame in the final three weeks of the season with UCLA and Georgia giving the national leaders a good run for their money.

Although the Cadets' string of 25 consecutive victories ended in the 0-0 tie with the fighting Irish before 74,068 customers at Yankee Stadium Saturday, neither side appeared to have lost prestige in the crunching battle of lines.

Touted as one of the most terrific teams ever to come out of South Bend, the burly Irish powered 84 yards down to Army's three-yard stripe in the second quarter in their only real offensive gesture. Only the one time they threw the ball past mid-field, though twice in the second half they fell upon Army's fumbles in Cadet territory and could do nothing with the opportunity.

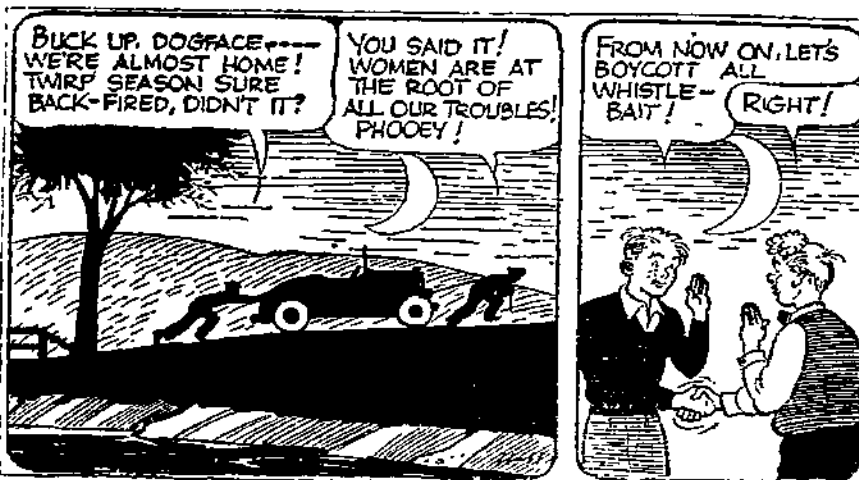

Army's all-conquering team, facing its first major test from a team filled with thoughts of revenge for beatings absorbed the past two years, muffed its best scoring chance in the opening period, when it was held for downs on the Notre Dame 15 after Goble Bryant, right tackle, had recovered an Irish fumble on the 24.

It was a bruising breathless struggle. Only two Army players, Felix (Doc) Blanchard and Glenn Davis, the two-time All-America backfield brilliants, went the route for the Cadets. The Irish, with a wealth of warming, prevented either from breaking away on one of the long touchdown runs for which they have become famous. (Turn to Page Nine)

"Snippy" answers to customers? The "run-around"? The "let-em-wait" attitude? Not at Personal Finance Company! My customers have declared me Innocent!

And they say I'm not guilty either of saying "No" to them when they ask for something. Proof: 4 out of 5 who ask for a loan here—get it!

"Personal" makes loans from $25 to $250 on signature alone, or on furniture or auto. Friends, relatives or employer not notified.

Usually I say "Yes" to loan requests in a hurry. But even when circumstances are unusual, I try to find a way to work out a deal. That's why "Personal" is so often able to make loans that others cannot.

Like most people, I don't believe in unnecessary borrowing... but when a loan is needed or to your advantage, I'll be glad to say "Yes." Any time you need extra cash—see me, won't you? I'm at Personal Finance Co., 216 Liberty street, second floor, over Lester Shoe Store. Phone 285.
